

GEORGE DOUGLASS IS KILLED IN AN ELEVATOR

George Douglass, Ogden's favorite tenor singer, died at the Dee hospital at 6:30 o'clock Saturday night from the result of injuries received in an accidental manner about 3:45 that afternoon. Mr. Douglass was employed at the Cragen Brothers commission house, 2244 Washington avenue, and at the time of the accident was repairing the freight elevator. He was familiar with the mechanism and during the day he had noticed that the elevator had not been working properly and told W. G. Cragen that he would fix it. He ran the elevator to the top of the shaft, evidently to look at the drum, when, as an investigation made later in the day showed, the brake rope broke and the elevator dropped with him to the bottom of the shaft. He was alone at the time, but it was thought that he had tried to jump off at the first floor, but, instead of striking on his feet, he struck the edge of the floor on his side and then fell to the basement.

When the noise of the falling elevator was heard, fellow employees rushed in and saw Mr. Douglass lying motionless near the elevator. They called the ambulance and the injured man was taken to the Dee hospital, where it was found that three of his ribs were broken and crushed against his heart, causing his death a few hours later.

Sorrow came to many hearts in the city when the news of the sad occurrence became known, for in the seven years Mr. Douglass had lived here his friendly personality and beautiful voice had been a bulwark of strength to his associates and had brought a balm of peace to many who were mourning. Few men in his sphere of life have given as much of their time and talent as freely for the benefit of the community as has Mr. Douglass and he will be greatly missed.

George Douglas was born in Smithfield, Cache County, December 11, 1877, and lived there until seven years ago when he moved to Ogden. He was greatly loved in that community. His wife, Julia Cragen, five children, his 80-year-old father, six sisters and one brother survive him. The children are all under nine years of age.

Mr. Douglass' death was the second accident in the family of recent occurrence, a little girl having been suspended from a hammock hook, which pierced through the flesh of her arm about three weeks ago.

About six years of the time he has lived in Ogden, he has been employed by Cragen Brothers and was one of their most valued employees and was held in high esteem by both his employers and fellow workers.

Though he won the hearts of many through singing at funeral services, church bazars and entertainments, he was most favorably known through his association with the Ogden Tabernacle Choir and his sudden death has left a vacant place in the ranks of the singers that will be hard to fill. Beginning his work with them as a member shortly after he came to Ogden, the sweet quality of his voice soon attracted the attention of Director Joseph Ballantyne, he was soon asked to assist in double-quartette, quartette, duet and solo work. He continued to improve and when he sang the tenor solos in "Christ, the Victor," Dudley Buck's beautiful oratorio, last summer, he was recognized as one of the State's most promising singers.

Director Joseph Ballantyne of the choir feels his loss keenly and, at a special rehearsal of the organization held yesterday, paid a sincere tribute of love and respect. In his talk, he said that few soloists or choir members had shown as much interest in the work as had Mr. Douglass, who had been faithful in attendance at both special and regular rehearsals and for the past year his record had shown but six absent marks. Mr. Ballantyne also said that the choir had been asked by the family to furnish the music for the funeral service, which is to be held in the Tabernacle on Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. and that he had answered the request in the affirmative as he thought that nothing could have been more appropriate.

For this reason the choir rehearsed the choruses "Calvary," "There is a Green Hill Far Away," "Weep Not For Me," "One Sweetly Solenn Thought" and "In the Time of Roses," and will sing them at the services.

Following the rehearsal, a motion was unanimously passed to send as a tribute of love to their fellow member, a beautiful floral piece and, as a testimonial to the bereaved family, the funds that are left after the flowers are paid for.

Director Ballantyne also said that a testimonial concert was to be given in the near future for the benefit of the family. For this occasion, the Ogden Tabernacle Choir will arrange the musical program and the Seventies Quorum, of which Mr. Douglass was a member, will have charge of the publicity and sale of tickets. Walter Scoville will be chairman of the latter committee.

The body of Mr. Douglass may be viewed at the Lindquist chapel this afternoon and evening and tomorrow morning from 10 a. m. to 12 noon. All the produce houses in the city will remain closed on Tuesday from 1 to 3 p. m., as a mark of respect to the memory of Mr. Douglass.

RABBIT HUNT AT THE NORTH END OF THE LAKE

Preparations for the big rabbit hunt that is to take place at the ranch of Chief of Police Norton, near Cosmo, at the north end of Great Salt Lake, on December 20, are well under way and an exceptionally large crowd of hunters is expected to make the trip.

Chief Norton said that the weather conditions at present are ideal for a successful shoot and that the bunnies are plentiful. Hunters are requested to take their lunches with them, but the chief will furnish the coffee. The report given out a few days ago that he would furnish the lunch, Mr. Norton said, was erroneous as he has no facilities at the ranch for that purpose.

The committee will furnish horsemen and teams to gather up and haul the slain rabbits. The men who do this work will be given the bounty on the rabbits for remuneration and the bunnies will be brought to Ogden for distribution among the poor.

The sale of tickets for the trip is now going on and transportation can be procured from the following members of the committee:

Chief W. I. Norton, George Brown, W. H. Taylor, Alex Taylor, T. Harrop, Dr. G. W. Baker, Alex Brewer, Roy Farley, Roy Shedy, Moroni Skeen and Oscar Crouch of Ogden and William Prue, Zach Young and Charles Peterson of Hooper.

Alice Joyce, featured in a two-reel production, "The Hunchback," A story of the underworld, at the Isis today, continuing until Wednesday.

INFERIOR SUGAR IS BEING SOLD IN THIS CITY

A poor quality of sugar is being sold on the Ogden market, represented to be a standard grade of beet sugar, but which is an inferior sugar shipped in from California. The sale of this low grade article, in competition with the local product has caused the Amalgamated Sugar company, by its manager, L. R. Eccles, to send out the following statement:

"Believing that the citizens of Ogden are disposed to fairly treat all of their local industries and to see fair play between competitors, we take this occasion to make a complete statement of facts referring to the position which we occupy with reference to the local sugar market.

"In the past few months there have upon several occasions, come to our attention instances where a very inferior grade of standard granulated sugar had been sold, and the purchasers had believed it to have been manufactured by us, as some of the complaints were referred directly to us.

Upon looking into the matter, we found that this poor quality sugar has been shipped in from California, and by reason of its poor quality, has in all probability been sold at less than the regular price.

"We feel that this is decidedly unjust to the local industry from two particular points of view. In the first place, by reason of the many benefits derived from the sugar industry in all lines of trade, we feel entitled to this patronage, and in the second place, any one who might purchase this inferior sugar would very naturally conclude that it was a local product, and thereby lend their influence toward forming a prejudice against the home-made product.

"In this connection we desire to say that during the past four years we have expended approximately $60,000 at our several plants for the express purpose of producing a product which should meet every requirement as a table sugar and a preserving sugar, and the results have been very gratifying, in so much that we can state at this time, without any hesitation or reservation whatever, that our product, known as 'table and preserving sugar' is equal to any granulated sugar sold in the United States today. We also unhesitatingly declare that it is identical in every particular with the so-called 'cane sugar.' And we further state that this particular product, known as 'table and preserving sugar,' is the only product that we have offered for sale in this market, all of our standard granulated sugar being shipped out to the middle west.

"In view of these facts we feel that we are not inconsistent in asking our friends and acquaintances to ask for our product when they purchase sugar, which will serve to aid us in securing the patronage to which we are entitled, and protect the public against such impositions as have been cited in the outset of this article.

"Our interests are interdependent with the interests of the public. Insist that your grocers supply table and preserving sugar made in Ogden City, Utah, from Utah beets, by Utah workmen. There is positively nothing better."
